Majority of construction projects closed down three weeks ago by the Victoria Building In-dustries Exchange reopened today, with men of all trades reporting for work.

G. H. Wheaton, spokesman for the exchange, said today contractors were still waiting to hear something definite from building trade unions on whether or no they would give assurance their members would handle any materials provided them.

Despite this, he said, exchange members, at a special meeting last night, decided to reopen their building projects on the basis that workers employed by Daw-son & Hall Ltd. had gone back to work and had used materials provided them on Monday.

Only jobs not going ahead to-day were those waiting ready-mix concrete. Evans, Coleman and Johnson Bros. Ltd., building supply firm presently strike-bound, is the sole distributor of this material, so, therefore, work

Most Work Resumed On Contracts

Most building projects in the Victoria area reopened today, putting back to work about 325 of the 500 building tradesmen thrown out of work three weeks ago by the city-wide construction shutdown.

A general back-to-work order was issued by the Victoria Building Industries Exchange following a special meeting Monday

Earlier, the exchange had anounced it would resume building activities only if construction trade unions gave assurance their members would work with any materials provided them. At the meeting, however, it was decided to reopen projects with-out such assurance, but to continue to seek "an official (union) endorsement of what appears to be the attitude of the men."

ONE WOMAN'S DAY By NANCY HODGES

SAMPLE 'COMMUNISM'

DON'T know how it went off, but yesterday was the day on which the town of Mosinee, Wisconsin, was to pull down the Iron Curtain in order to get an idea of what it would be like to live under Communism. It was the first such experiment of its kind in U.S. history.

According to plans announced some weeks ago, on May 1, freedom, as we in this part of the world know it, was to be taken from this little community of 2,000 souls. All property was to be "confiscated" by the state for the day—including the Mosinee Paper Mills Company, the biggest industry in that area.

CHURCHES PADLOCKED

THE 600 employees of that mill, together with all other union workers in the community, were to lose their bargaining rights, as well as receiving only a $4-wage for a 12-hour day to bring them into line with workers under the Soviet regime. In addition, churches were to be padlocked, not that such a step would make such a difference on a Monday, perhaps, but as a reminder of Communist methods.

To lend further authenticity to the experiment, "Red" instructors were to take over the schools as part of the day's program. And, to add further color to the proceedings, "enemies" of the Communist state were to be placed in concentration camps surrounded by barbed wire.

BACK TO NORMAL

TODAY, life in that little mill town on Wisconsin River was scheduled to return to normal. And the editor of the local paper who acted as general manager of the "day under Communism" expressed the hope, when publicizing the plans beforehand, that the people of Mosines would "really under-stand what it would be like to live under Communism." I

At the same time he warned would-be sensation-mongers from other communities to stay away, as "actually there would not be a great deal for outsiders to see." That warning made me smile grimly at the recollection of the glowing accounts of life in the Soviet Union brought back by certain "parlor pinks" in the past.

NOT THE REAL THING

IF YOU believe their reports—which I don't—there isn't much to be seen amiss when you are privileged to peep behind the real Iron Curtain, either. That's just the trouble—you have to look below the surface to discover what the political philosophy as practised by the Politburo and the police state

And while the citizens of that little American town are probably thanking their lucky stars today that yesterday was only an experiment, and while I take off my hat to them for taking this novel means of bringing home the insidious menace of Communist ideologies, it must be remembered that the taste they had was a very long way from the real thing.

THE population of Mosinee, even those interned behind barbed wire as "enemies," knew that their detention was only for a day. Not for them the terrible strain of wondering what tomorrow might hold for them, whether it would bring consignment to the dreaded salt mines of Siberia or whether they were destined to be among the victims of the next purge.

That's why any such experiment, no matter how wellintentioned, must fail. Because it is impossible for those of us who are privileged to live in the freedom of democracy to imagine, even for one moment, what the ruthless restrictions and regimentations of the police state can do to the spirit.

CONSIDERABLE OPPOSITION MIGHT driving the onus of proving their sobriety. The suggestion, advanced as one means of plugging loopholes in existing laws on the subject, is contrary to the general principle of British justice under which an individual is presumed innocent until proved guilty.

The proposal nevertheless revives an argument noted in these columns during the discussion some months ago of a plan to establish blood tests as a contributing method of determining degrees of intoxication. At that time we drew attention to the fact that a negative ctive in establishing sobriety as would a positive report in certifying

Blood analysis, the value of which is-still challenged, would not furnish abso-lute proof. Combined with other clinical examination procedures, however, might go a long way toward eliminating doubt about a person's condition as a result of the use of alcohol. One of the difficulties forestalling its applica-tion at present lies in the technical definition of assault. A person who is arrested for drunken driving and who declines to submit to a blood test, cannot be compelled to undergo one. On the revealed by the test, is shown to be intoxicated, he has not been in sufficient possession of his faculties to be fully responsible for consent. Under those circumstances, the doctor taking the blood sample may face action for The difficulty would be overcome, of course, if drivers, when their sobriety was beyond question, gave permission for such tests in the future. There are certain objections to such a scheme. One of them is that in order to make the method work fully, consents would have to be obtained from all drivers. That would establish an indirect compulsion with which many people do not agree. Rather than see the usual interpreta-tion of justice reversed, by placing the onus of proving sobriety on an accused, however, some such system might be investigated more fully. Everyone agrees that action is needed to curb drunken driving. That entails establishment of proof when drunkenness is an ingredient in the charge. There will be no quarrel with that end. There will, nevertheless, be some question over the means if it reverses precedent to the extent of placing the onus of proof on the accused a transposition of responsibility that is rare in Canadian courts.

Helping A Worthy Cause

REGARDED AS AN AFFLICTION second only to mental disease as a crippler of humanity, arthritis and rheumatic ailments in general take an appalling toll of useful careers. In Canada an estimated 600,000 men and women suffer in some degree. Of these, 100,000 are totally or partially disabled, possibly as many as 20,000 of them confined to Such a situation constitutes a mass of human misery that challenges the more fortunate citizens who have escaped such an onslaught. Recent years have seen the fight against rheumatic diseases mobilized with ever greater efficiency and results. The laboratory research that has produced conteracting drugs of spectacular effect, the development of clinics and the formation of organizations de-signed for the relief of afflicted persons all have contributed to a greater knowledge of the problem and a better insight into the eventual methods by which it may be solved. Such work, however, requires funds if progress is to be con tinued. The first appeal of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society is now before the public. The national objective is $850,000, of which Victoria's quota is $12,000. In a world in which many worthwhile demands are made on the pocketbook, this is one to which particular heed should be given.

Greater Victoria is generally recognized, quite apart from its cultural worth. It draws extra dollars to our hotels and restaurants. It brings new business to our stores. But more than that, it creates a favorable impression that is worth hundreds of dollars in publicity. People who come to this city to see its spring gardens in bloom do not go away disappointed. They tell their friends and those friends come in future seasons.

Neighbors In Need

NEWS THAT THE SPRING RUN-OFF of the Fraser River basin is proceed ing at a safe level with good prospects that no serious flood conditions will be experienced this year serves to emphasiz the difficulties now being met in Manitoba. Damage running into the mill has been caused in the southern part of the province as the swollen Red River has spread out from its banks and inundated farm and urban sections. Mass evacuation of flooded and threatened areas has sent refugees into Winnipeg, and con-siderable hardship may result before normal conditions are restored.

It is not so long ago that the southern part of our own province had a taste of such a natural calamity. A quick thawby heavy rains, sent torrents of water into the Fraser Valley in May, 1948, and swept away homes, farms and cattle. While of course no absolute protection can be given against Nature's rampages measures undertaken following the great Fraser flood have provided as much guarantee as possible against a too-fre-

The prairie situation is perhaps more difficult, in that the generally low-lying ground permits little margin of safety A sudden run-off at the source, heavy rains and a few ice jams downstream, furnish all the elements needed for a crisis. Prairie flood stories are an annual event, but when the onslaught is as severe as it has been this year, the more fortunate parts of the country will extend their sympathy—and perhaps more tangible tokens of their concern.

COMMUNISM AND ISOLATIONISTS

MR. HOOVER'S address to the American Newspaper Publishers' Associa-tion will help many who have been trying to understand the views and the inten-tions of the old guard Republicans. The main puzzle has been how to reconcile-their war-like and crusading fervor against Communism and Soviet Russia with their growing opposition to E.R.P., measures of that sort. The old guard Republicans in the Senate talk as if they were about to advocate a declaration of war. But increasingly they are disposed to vote as isolationists.

Mr. Hoover's speech provides the key to this paradox. It is that the old guard retire into isolation during a great roar of anti-Communist noises

THE WORLD needs," said Mr. Hoover, "mobilization against this creeping Red imperialism. The United States needs to know who are with us in the cold war against these practices and whom we can depend on." With these bold, brave, and resounding words, Mr. Hoover declared: "Therefore I have a proposition to make."

And what was the proposition he had to make? It was that if the United Nations cannot be "reorganized without the Communist nations," if, in other words, the Soviet Union and its satellites cannot be expelled, then "a definite new united front should be organized of those people who disavow Communism.' plan English Mr. Hoover is advising the U.S. to withdraw from the United Nations and therefore break it up, and then to form "a new united front" of those who disavow Communism. In his view, apparently, any nation which does not vote to expel the Soviet Union and its satellites from the United Nations has

MR. HOOVER'S NEW united front, which he would "organize" after withdrawing from the United Nations, is, he says, "specifically not a proposed extension of a military alliance or any color of it. It is a proposal based solely upon moral, spiritual and defence (sic) foundations." Mr. Hoover made it quite plain elsewhere in his speech that he means it when he says that the new united front is not to have the color of an alliance. For at every opportunity in his address he sneered at the idea of helping countries which, when they op-pose Soviet Russia, run risks and need support. Thus, of military aid, Mr could say only "in persistence of an old habit we are taking up the

So the new united front, if Mr. Hoover has his way, will consist of the United States plus those nations which, without costs to the United States, feel able unaided to "take such a vital stand." Thus Mr. Hoover's new united front against Communism is not very new. It is cer-tainly not very united. It is not much of a front. It is a proposal to scuttle the United Nations and—though Mr. Hoover does not quite say so—the existing Western framework of collaboration ough the security pact and the Mar

THE NEW UNITED FRONT against Communism, as Mr. Hoover virtually admitted, is the new isolationism. "It may be," he said, "that the non-Communist world is not willing to take such a vital stand"—not willing, that is to say, to wreck the United Nations, not willing to challenge the Soviet imperial power without guaranties, alliances and support.

Mr. Hoover is prepared to see the new united front come to nothing. Indeed he expects it to come to nothing, saying that "It may be the non-Communist world is willing" to follow him. What then? not willing" to follow him. What then? "At least it would clarify what we have What do we have to do? Mr. Hoover never quite clarified that,

Thus we see how the new isolationism works; how with the drums and the trumpets of an anti-Communist crusade the old guard is beating a retreat from what Mr. Hoover calls, truly enough, "an expensive and dangerous cold war." Mr. Hoover has made it all much plainer, and that in a way was a public

As one who has spent much time in Vancouver during the last two years and has taken frequent opportunities of seeing how the beer parlors function, I was very pleased to see the firm attitude taken by Victoria papers against having them here. It is suggested they would be good for the tourist trade. If tourists come here to spend their days and nights in beer parlors they can do it now. In my opinion one result of making the consumption of beer easier would be that the addition of $10 to $20 per month to the budget would call for increased wages and necessary strikes to obtain these desired wages. The public must remember that no food may be consumed in

MEASURE FOR MEASURE

It is related in the "Farmers' Journal" of the year 1001 A.D., that the chicke demanded more corn, the horses more oats and the cows more grass.

However, the farmers felt they had increased allowances all they could. So the chickens, horses and cows went on No more eggs, work or milk in 1001 A.D.

Said the gods: "A stalemate on earth! No more eggs! No more work! No more

Of course, it wasn't long before every body was conscious of the pinch. The corn and oats were likely to rot and the grass to dry up. Everyone was very

The farmer said, "I can't function without my livestock." The livestock said, "We can't function without the farmer." So they got together and in the end compromised on the principle that, "A share in the hand is worth two on the dump!" Then they all went back to the business of giving and taking.

Now the moral of it is: All we can ever expect is a measure of what we demand. There are two sides (at least) to every question or demand. One of which is thine own and one of which is the other fellow's. A compromise enables both sides to receive and give a measure of what is rightly theirs . . . to receive and give!

MOTHERS DISLIKE CHLORINE

Would you please print this letter as an open letter to the civic officials? As a group of mothers whose first concern is the welfare of our families, we would like an accounting for the chlorination of Greater Victoria's water

Those responsible installed the chlorinator on the pretext that it would lessen the incidence of disease. Has it done so? Perhaps a good answer is in the wide-spread epidemic of "flu" that has at-tacked almost everyone we know in the past three months!

Is there any appreciable difference in the occurrence of any other disease since chlorination? From the observation of our own and friends' families the answer seems to be a resounding "no"!

Besides apparently having no bene-ficial effect on the public health this chlorine has rendered our water prac-tically undrinkable. Just run off a glassful, then hold it under your nose, You will promptly lose any desire to drink it! Even after it is boiled and made into tea, it still retains its nasty smell and taste.

If our water is impure and lacking in inerals, we have nature's own solution right here at home. A few loads of washed and crushed clamshells make an excellent water filter; if put into our reservoirs would they not also supply some of the much needed soluble min

Surely there is some better solution than this present expensive, inefficient, and most unsavory polluting of our water

WATER SUPPLY

Re G. K. Beeston's (Insp. of Food etc.) letter in your issue of last Friday, I should say no person should ever have sold flour containing nitrogen trichloride, and it is a most appalling scandal that such a thing should ever have happen

The letter I wrote as it happens was my statement, but was copied from another paper.

The next thing is to cut out water containing chlorine. A certain section of the public voted for it and another section of the more enlightened public voted against it, naturally. Most water contains bacilli which do not harm, unless of course it is typhoid, enteric, or diphtheria.

CRITICIZES STRIKERS

May I, through the medium of your newspaper express to the heads of the firms which have been harassed by a few men from Evans, Coleman and John son going on strike, the sincere sympathy and thanks for their attitude adopted towards the strikers at this time. About 75 men, who from the facts published in your paper are making roughly from $175 to $258 per month, are striking for higher wages.

They have already lost in wages almost a month's pay, and are still going on striking without complaint of the loss of that money. The only result at present is that work and housing projects which are vitally needed for the liveliwhich are vitally needed for the liveli-hood and well-being of thousands of their fellow citizens are being kept at a stand-still. If these striking men had been asked to donate that amount for old age pensions they would have raised such a howling uproar about such an injustice that even the roar of a thunderstorm would have been drowned out.

What are they doing instead? They with their good wages are striking for more, with the result that once more the cost of living will go up, and the little fellow who is striving to make ends meet on $600 or $700 per year has to meet that cost by taxes on everything he buys, even in small quantities.

action to keep the strategic island of Formosa out of Red hands.

Dulles doesn't amplify that but leaves us to figure out why. One obvious answer is that Formosa not only is Generallssimo Chiang Kai-shek's headquarters but is the sect of whethis left of the ters but is the seat of what is left of the Nationalist government—a castle with a ghost. It's about the last bit of Chinese ghost. It's about the last bit of Chinesesoil Chiang has for refuge.

But supposing the United States maintains the Nationalists on the island, what practical purpose will it serve? Does Chiang have a chance of retrieving his position and reconquering China?

A horse-racing addict perhaps would figure Chiang's chances as a long shot figure Chiang's chances as a long shot. However, the generalissimo maintains that he still can turn the trick if he gets support. Here are some of his reasons: support. Here are some of his reasons:

While the Communists have "conquered" the vast mainland, the Nation alists claim that actually there are many areas which still are in the hands of guerrillas who have no use for the Reds. Then, two, it is essential that the Communists knock out the Nationalist gov-ernment and military headquarters on Formosa for economic reasons.

A Chinese Nationalist official says that it takes the tax on 30 peasants to keep one soldier going. He estimates that the Communists have more than 7,000,000 troops under arms. If Formosa can be knocked out, and the generalissimo can be rendered helpless, the Reds can demobilize and thereby cut the taxation which is so irksome to the Chinese.

And finally we have to note that For-mosa is a highly strategic stronghold lying 100 miles off the Chinese coast on traffic lanes between Japan, the Philippines and Indonesia.

SENATE RETIREMENT

Edmonton Journal

Age limits for judges and senators have been advocated in Canada for many years, but a speech by Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader in the Upper House, is the first hint that some thing official may be done.

Senator Robertson informed the Senate that future appointments of superior court judges and senators might be made with the understanding that the appointee would retire when he reached a certain age, 75 years being suggested.

The arrangement Senator Robertson suggested should, in time, correct this situation, infuse more vigor into the Upper House, and make it more the vital arm of government which the fathers of Confederation intended.

ACORNS FOR THREEPENCE

London (Ont.) Free Press

The British Forestry Commission is buying acorns from school children at the rate of threepence a pound. These little acorns from which mighty oaks will grow are planted in government nurseries, and the seedlings set out in all parts of the country to make the forests of the future.

So far the project has been a tremendous success, as evidenced by the report of one little school whose 29 pupils already have collected nearly a ton of acorns or enough to establish a 150-acre nursery. This indeed has all the earmarks of a Herculean task. But if our experience in emptying Junior's pockets after a walk in the woods is any yardstick by which to judge the amount of work involved, then the British youngsters must be jingling their threepence quite convinced that money does grow on trees after all.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"IT LOOKS," said the Elevator Man, "like we're going to have a lot more kinds of curtains before we're through Churchill started it with his 'iron cur tain' a few years ago. That became a handy part of the language. Now the Dean of Canterbury has added another. The old fellow mixes politics and religion, not too happily, and the U.S. wouldn't let him land in Honolulu on his round-the-world trip. So the Dean says he was barred out of the States by a 'golden curtain.' But I doubt if it will end there. Already we have 'radar curtains' for defence, and others are bound to be raised and lowered sooner or later. Main floor!

"For instance," said the Elevator Man, "how about a sand and gravel curtain to protect us against building shut-downs? Or a wooden curtain to save our forests? Why not let down a garbage curtain that Why not let down a garbage curtain would keep our beaches clean? Would a carrot curtain keep out rust fly or a scare away small boys? soap curtain scare away small boys? There's lots of possibilities there. A good hot air curtain would have been me last winter. Going down!

"Curtains for personal use," said the Elevator Man, "may be likely too. How about a talking curtain to keep bores away, a dood curtain to slave off hunger. or a card curtain to shut off canasta tables? Most of them would be harmless, and might even do some good. But the thing to avoid would be an atomic curtain. Once they ring that one down, it'll be curtains for us."

Why, then, has the President brought him to the highest councils of state? The answer lies partly in the low prestige of the State Department, partly in the low calibre of many Republican Senators. The State Department is still ators. The State Department is still suffering from American shame at their defeat in China. The Americans, unused that only treachery to defeats, suspect that only treachery could make them vulnerable; hence Sen-ator McCarthy's search for a "master spy" directing U.S. foreign policy—a search with which Bridges has been associated. Added to this defeat is the failure of the State Park. failure of the State Department to unite Western Europe by the Marshall plan.

Pose New Problems For Bi-Partisan Groups

These diplomatic railures have been underlined by the discovery during the recent State Department investigations that although the number of "Reds" in the Department is negligible, nearly a hundred officers have had to be dismissed on moral charges. The net effect has been to make a large section of the American public believe that their foreign affairs are in dubious hands. With an election coming up next November it was essential to prevent this issue becoming campaign material. But here President was faced with the sad fact that with Senator Vandenberg ill there was no single Republican Senator who could lead his party to collaborate with the Democratic administration.

By WILLIAM CLARK, O.F.N.S. Corres pondent, from Washington Truman's gamble is to bid for Republican support, or at least neutrality, through the medium of Senator Bridges. It may well be that this is the price the discredited State Department had to pay, but it may be a very heavy one. Already it is apparent that many Republicans feel that the previous bi-partisan policy contributed to their surprise defeat in 1948, and that they are determined to make arrangements less advantageous to the administration.

DEBATING POLICY

For instance Senator Ferguson has demanded that the Republicans should be consulted on all parts and phases of policy-making. This means that the Senators will insist on debating policy while it is being made. It seems most unlikely that any realistic policy toward China will be acceptable to this wing of the Republicans, who still demand and for Chiang Kai-shek, nursing his forlorn hopes on the island of Formesa.

The real problem facing Truman is not simply the setting-up of machinery for a bi-partisan policy but solving the problem of how the cold war can be conducted by public descriptions. conducted by public democratic debate.

To an oil man a "wildcat" is a well drilled in an area where oil has never been found. Drilling a wildcat is a risky undertaking and a costly one. Some wells have cost more than a million dollars-and have not been successful.

For that reason oil men make as certain as they can, before drilling that there is a good chance of finding oil. They use the most modern instruments and skills to locate each drilling site; but still the odds are 20 to one against them. Only about one wildcat in 20 becomes

"THE LITTLE PRINCESSES"

By PETE SALLAWAY, Times Sports Edito

If at first you don't succeed, try, try again. New Westminster Royals made the famous saying work Saturday night when they captured the Pacific Coast Hockey League championship on their second attempt. Royals, a team of veterans who all know their way around a hockey rink, were nearly outhustled by the youthful Los Angeles Monarchs, being extended into overtime in the seventh and final clash.

On the strength of their record throughout the regular schedule, Coach Babe Pratt's charges were favorites, but don't forget that long playoff schedule must have been rough on the veterans. Those old legs get awfully tired in an extended playoff such as the Royals went through. Victory of the Royals assured Pratt a renewal of his contract for the 1950-51 season, although most likely the big fellow was already in for another year. He did a good job.

Somebody's Head Will Fall

Begins to look mighty like there will soon be some head chopping by the Seattle Rainiers. Woeful record of the Coast League ball club has gone beyond the joke stage and, unless something is done in a hurry, owner Emil Sick is going to look at a lot of red figures in his ledger. Rainiers' record to date is the worst in the history of a Seattle club. As radio broadcaster Leo Lassen mentioned Sunday, he can't ever remember any Seattle team dropping 13 out of 14 road games since he went on the air back in 1931. Rainiers have lost 23 of their last 25 games.

Heath Got $17,500—Benched

At the present time I wouldn't like to be in the shoes of general manager Earl Sheely. He is the individual most responsible for putting together the present aggregation of Rainiers. New manager Paul Richards cannot be blamed too much as he just took over the ball club given him. Breaking in fresh, he didn't have too much to say about player personnel. And don't forget it was Sheely who negotiated the deal with Jeff Heath, the former major league outfielder. It is reported Heath received $17,500 for inking his contract. Now manager Richards has benched him for not being in condition. That's certainly not a mark in the right column for Sheely.

Manager Krug Out On Limb

If manager Marty Krug of the Victoria Athletics didn't realize the spot in which he placed himself by having his son on the line-up, he got some first-hand evidence of just how far he's out on the limb from a portion of the Victoria fans Saturday night.

With young Krug in a bad batting slump since the opening of the season (he's hitting a paltry .135), some of the more rabid customers have seen fit to get on him. In the closing engagement with Wenatchee the fans switched their criticism to the elder Krug and some of their remarks must have been a little hard to take. I even heard one crack: "You wouldn't even be on the club if your old man wasn't

Young Marty is a better ball player than he has shown to date and it is a bit unfair to get on him with the season less than a month old. However, Saturday's performance by the fans is an indication of the spot Marty senior will be in all year. But then again it's a situation of his own making and he'll have to work out any solution. His best bet is to get the Athletics on a winning streak.

IT'S MARVELOUS how a little vorry can grow into a big one f you put enough time on it. There's no limit to the way you can magnify it. If you're persistent, you can even get other people to work on your problem, reaction-wind up by worrying about worrying

Some 'well-meaning friend omes along and tells you that you take things too seriously. He advises you to live for the day, let the future take care of itself. He trots out the old "pack up your troubles" routine and urges you to smile, smile, smile.

TRY IT SOMETIME. Be a blithe spirit. Only don't do it in public. The place for that experiment is at home, where you're loved and protected. On the street, people will look at you and shake their heads, even at a mild form of blitheness. If you get too vigorous, too happy authority may take action. It

At home you get a more sympathetic treatment. You bounce into a room singing, skip around, toussle the youngsters' hair, dance gaily and keep bellowing, "Do You Know the Muffin Man."
You can get away with it for short time. But when you see an elder daughter sidle up to her mother and ask if daddy's been out with the boys again, your performance is nearly over

YOU CAN figure then that a family can take only so much blitheness. It's time you crawled back into your shell. Don't bother making those bright remarks about what to do with the household bills. The let's-behappy act is over. Life is earnest, life is real, and it seems to have more place for the worriers than for the carefree. You're supposed to act your age. Better get back to a little worry and see how big you can make it. That's accepted as normal. Leave the eccentric for moving pic-tures like "You Can't Take It With You."

THE LONGEST three-quarters of an hour in the day starts when the 10-year-old sits down at the piano to practice. It doesn't seem possible that the minutes could drag so slowly. The alarm clock that rests on the top of the piano seems to lose it's regular rhythm. The time between ticks stretches out with rest intervals between.

It's not hard to understand why the 10-year-old should look for a way to make time move faster. It's so easy to twist the knob at the back of the clock and jump the hands ahead five minutes every five minutes. Cuts practising time in half, too.

That doesn't make the 10-year popular the next morning. It's hard enough to get used to rising an hour earlier on Day-light Saving Time without forcing the pace another 20 minutes.

CLAIMS SOVIET ROCKETS AIMED AT NORTHWEST

Alaska Target, Former Russian Escapee Now Held As Stowaway Says

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (UP)-A former Russian naval engineer, now held as a stowaway, says Russia has rocket installations pointed toward Alaska, Norway and Sweden, his attorney said today.

The engineer, Victor Martunuk, 33, was arrested as a stowaway at Philadelphia last April 5 by immigration and naturalization officials. A bill introduced by Senator Edward Martin (R.-Pa.), to let him live in the United States has passed the Senate, his attorney iaid.

Ivan M. Czap, counsel for Mar-runuk, said the Russian fled a Soviet concentration camp to bring to the U.S. word of the rocket installations. Czap said Martunuk reported that the Russians have built rocket installations on the Arctle Ocean island of Novaya Zemlya. They are aimed at Alaska he said. Installations north of Len-ingrad are aimed at the Baltic ountries. Czap said. He said Martunuk learned of the installations while he was a prison truck driver. He was sen-tenced to 25 years' imprisonment because he was an officer of an anti-Communist army of Russian prisoners of war organized by the Germans. Czap said Martunuk killed a guard and fled, aided by a Rusian underground.

Martunuk's deportation was stayed two days after the engin-eer was seized. Much of Mar-tunuk's story has been corrobor-
